DETAILED ACTION

Election/Restrictions

Restriction to one of the following inventions is required under 35 U.S.C. 121:

- I. Claims 1-79, drawn to methods for making a sheet, classified in class 162, subclass 109.
- II. Claims 80-94, drawn to absorbent sheets, classified in class 428, subclass 98.
- III. Claims 95-198, drawn to methods for making a sheet, classified in class 162, subclass 109.
- IV. Claims 199-205, drawn to a wet crepe, throughdry process for making a sheet, classified in class 162, subclass 109.

Inventions I, III, and IV are unrelated. Inventions are unrelated if it can be shown that they are not disclosed as capable of use together and they have different modes of operation, different functions, or different effects (MPEP § 806.04, MPEP § 808.01). In the instant case, the method of invention I pertains to controlling the airflow through the sheet to a characteristic Reynolds number. The method of invention III pertains to making a sheet having a void volume defined by a characteristic equation dependent on the sheet weight. The method of invention IV pertains to making a sheet having an absolute value of void volume and a defined wet springback ratio. Each of the methods are defined differently and can have different results. For example, a sheet produced at a characteristic Reynolds number may not result in a sheet having the defined characteristic void volume, the claimed absolute void volume, or the defined wet springback ratio. Similarly, sheets having the claimed properties of void volume or springback ratio may be dried under different conditions.

Inventions II and I/III/IV are related as products made and processes of making. The inventions are distinct if either or both of the following can be shown: (1) that the process as claimed can be used to make other and materially different product or (2) that the product as claimed can be made by another and materially different process (MPEP § 806.05(f)). In the instant case, both apply. The sheets as claimed by invention II have a defined wet springback ratio. These sheets can be made processes other than those defined by a characteristic Reynolds number (I) or a characteristic void volume (III), and by process other than creping and throughdrying (IV). For example, a sheet having the defined wet springback ratio can be made using high fluff pulps with carefully controlled bulk and without creping. Also, process inventions I and III can result in products having different springback ratios than what is claimed by invention II.

Because these inventions are distinct for the reasons given above and the search required for either of Groups I, II, III, or IV is not required for the others, restriction for examination purposes as indicated is proper.

Applicant is advised that the reply to this requirement to be complete must include an election of the invention to be examined even though the requirement be traversed (37 CFR 1.143).

Applicant is reminded that upon the cancellation of claims to a non-elected invention, the inventorship must be amended in compliance with 37 CFR 1.48(b) if one or more of the currently named inventors is no longer an inventor of at least one claim remaining in the application. Any amendment of inventorship must be accompanied by a request under 37 CFR 1.48(b) and by the fee required under 37 CFR 1.17(i).
